A unique microbiota, which had already disappeared from dry land but kept the beer fit for drinking, was found in it. A long scientific adventure began, identifying the raw materials of the Emperor's festive drink, its production method and country of origin, Belgium. Rural and dark Northern nature has always been the fountain of inspiration for brewing at the Finnish Mallaskoski brewery. In our beers you can taste the strong Nordic temper and the world's cleanest waters.

At Mallaskoski the sun doesn't shine, life isn't rosy, nor people shoot the breeze.^[SEP] In 1921 the founder of the brewery, Johan Wallenius, started the making of his beverages in a dreary washhouse.

In 1928 Wallenius decided to buy land next to rumbling falls near by, and built a factory there. Already then their beer was known around the country for it's exquisiteness and was even shipped abroad.

Microbrewery Stallhagen Ab was set up in 2004 by a group of beer enthusiasts. It currently has over 1600 shareholders. The first brewery on the Åland islands was established back in the 1850's, but Stallhagen is now one of Åland's only two breweries, with a production site at Grelsby, 18 km from Mariehamn.

The initial aim of the brewery was to produce good craft beers, mainly for the Åland market. However, with its flavorful products the company has quickly won innumerable friends outside Åland, and Stallhagen beer is now sold in both Finland and Sweden. Steadily increasing demand and investments in higher production capacity have led to a growth in sales volumes and made the Stallhagen brand well-known to beer-lovers generally, not just the growing flock of experts and connoisseurs.

Uusikaupunki

Vakka-Suomen Panimo Osakeyhtiö (Vakka-Suomi Brewery LLC) is a microbrewery located in the city of Uusikaupunki. Since its founding in 2008, the brewery has been producing high-class specialty beers. During this fairly short amount of time, the brewery has been enriching the Finnish beer culture with dozens of different beer types. In addition to beers, the brewery also manufactures ciders, other alcoholic beverages and ice teas.

The brewery's product name "Prykmestar" pays honour to the old beer brewing tradition of Uusikaupunki. "Prykmestar" means brewmaster in the local dialect. Still in the early 20th century, beer was crafted in the vaulted basement of the town's old brewery, known as "Pryki" to the locals. Since then, the brewing activity slowly faded altogether, until after nearly one hundred years later the tradition was brought back to life with new vitality.

"We are two immigrants who fell in love with Finland and its culture. Inspired by the pride Finns take in the craftsmanship of Finnish products, we set out to determine if the pure Finnish nature could produce exceptional wines. After years of experimentation with a variety of berries and other local ingredients, we felt we had found something special to share."

Ainoa Winery Oy was granted a license to produce wines in July 2014. Small scale production batches were started soon thereafter using space rented at the Lepaa Winery in Hattula.
