Almost no nation on Earth is as connected to a particular experience as Finland is to the sauna. It can be high-tech or primitive, a special event or a daily activity. But above all, the sauna is undoubtedly a product of Finnish know-how.

The sauna has always been one of the key aspects of Finnish culture. It is an integral part of everyday life and celebrations. Throughout the years, the sauna has served as a place to give birth, wash off the dust of hard work, look after one’s health and alleviate ailments, as well as make important decisions and promote diplomatic relations.
THE SAUNA IS THE KEY TO THE WORLD’S WELL-BEING

The sauna is a temple of well-being for Finns. It is the perfect place to relax, calm down, cherish health and engage in social interaction. The mind and body can find harmony in the sauna. The ideal, authentic sauna experience is created through the joint effect of multiple senses: it includes sights, scents and sensations.

The health and well-being benefits of the sauna are widely acknowledged and have been researched for decades. Findings have proven that the sauna has a positive effect on many kinds of medical conditions, like some skin, joint and circulation diseases. Going to the sauna reduces stress and improves the quality of sleep. In the sauna, one can cleanse oneself both physically and mentally.

Our day-to-day life is very busy these days, and everything is done as efficiently as possible. A proper sauna experience turns this on its head: a conscious decision to pause, relax and look after yourself.
FINLAND IS THE LEADING SAUNA COUNTRY

The Finnish sauna and sauna products are constantly developed based on user experiences and research. All of the materials to build a sauna as well as long-term experience concerning them can be found in Finland: wood from the forests, stones from nature.

We possess an understanding of product development and sauna consumers. Finland is a single large product development laboratory where sauna experiences and its impact on wellbeing can be studied in a large user base and in different environments.

We have a wide range of sauna environments: cottages, detached houses, terraced houses, blocks of flats, hotels, spas, public swimming halls and even special-purpose saunas.
- Almost every residential building has a sauna.
- Many companies have their own sauna.
